The German raider made her appearance somewhere off the coast of Brazil, and all shipping in the vicinity has been officially warned that further attacks by the corsair are to be anticipated.

The Admiralty gives no indication of the type of craft engaged, but it is believed to be an armed merchant ship which had run to a South American refuge at the outbreak of the war.

With her first appearance on the high seas, British naval units in the affected area are moving to intercept her and it is imagined that air cooperation will be a feature of the hunt which was instituted as soon as the first report was received .- Our Own Correspondent.

COMMENTING ON THE sinking of the Clement, a naval expert said that the popping-up of the armed raider in the South Atlantic was no surprise to the British Navy.

What was a surprise was the fact that four weeks had elapsed since the outbreak of war and its first appearance.

THE BUDGET DEBATE was continued in the Commons yesterday when the Financial Secretary to the Treasury claimed that the response of taxpayers to the Budget had been truly remarkable and was one more sign, if sign were needed, of the determination of the British people to contribute in the financial sphere to the winning of the war.

CHOLERA STATISTICS

No fewer than 27 cholera cases and to Turkey and Great Britain. 23 of typhoid were notified to the Medical Department last week. In the same period, there were 12 deaths from cholera and 16 from typhold.

Tuberculosis, notifications totalled 142 of which 96 were deaths registertered.

Yesterday, seven further cholera cases, five of them in Kowloon, indicated that the fresh outbreak is not beginning to wane. There were also three typhoid cases yesterday, and 40 | bassador to Poland, arrived back in duberculosis.

Such figures were truly remarkable, yet in a full year taxation under this budget would produce not £107,000,-000 but £226,500,000.

The new rates of income tax, surtax and death duties were going to 'produce far-reaching changes in the lives of thousands of people.

The increases in indirect taxation, too, would be borne with resignation and even cheerfulness by the general body of consumers.

- The excess profits duty had not been unexpected. It would replace the armaments profits duty, on which the House had spent many hours earlier in the year.

That tax was levied only on armament firms but the new tax would fall upon all firms whether engaged on armaments works or not. It was the right sort of tax for wartime.

Capt. Crookshank informed the House that at the end of last week a circular was sent out to all departments reminding them that the strictest economy must be exercised over the whole field of public expenditure because of the imperative necessity of husbanding the financial resources of the country so as to make them available to the utmost for purposes of

SINKING OF THE VENDIA: TORPEDOED WITHOUT ADEQUATE WARNING

London, To-day.

AN ACCOUNT OF THE sinking of the Danish steamer. Vendia on Saturday by a German submarine is given by a member of the crew of the ship which picked up the survivors.

The ship was torpedoed by a German submarine while it was on its way to the Clyde with ballast only. Eleven of her crew were killed.

The member of the crew of the rescue ship said that they were about six or seven miles away from the Vendia when they heard a tremendous explosion and saw a lot of smoke.

They rushed to the scene and found the Vendia with her bow out of the water and her stern under water. She had been hit amidships.

U-BOAT THREAT

The attacking Nazi submarine took on board six men and later put them back into their lifeboat. The rescue ship launched its own lifeboat into heavy seas and got all the survivors on board after some very dangerous moments.

The survivors and the rescue ship were told by 'the submarine not mention the sinking until they. h reached port-otherwise, they would not reach port at all. Hence the delay in reporting the sinking, which occurred on "Saturday.

One of the survivors said that the ship was ordered to stop but at the same time there was a terrific explosion and the engines were blown through the bridge.

Repeated successful reconnaissance by units of the Royal Air Force in co-operation with French airmen is believed to be regarded as highly annoying by the German High Command.

London, To-day. It is authoritatively stated that the men called up under Sunday's proclamation will, FULL STORY after training, be sent as reseas.

It must not be forgotten that the Army has considerably expanded earlier this year, and thus it is neither need ul nor desirable to post untrained men direct to units.

Apart from militia provisions, the Territorial Army was doubled in the Spring, and men called up will be used to keep up the strength of this great army already in existence.

It is anticipated that the group just called will be sufficient for service needs until the New Year, when the next group 21 to 23 will probably be required.

Further Army expansion i not at present contemplated but should the necessity arise supplementary divisions could quickly be formed.—British Wireless.

BATTLE EPIC

London, To-day. The full account of the battle between five Royal Air Force machines and 15 Nazi craft on Sunday is released by the Air Ministry.

The five British machines were on reconnaissance duty. Three were shot down and another was forced to land, but the fifth machine carried out its reconnaissance and returned successfully.

As the R.A.F. machines flew over the Siegfried Line at a height of over 20,000 feet, 9 Nazi machines approached from dead ahead and other 6 came up from the right.

The British formation flew on. The Germans broke formation and proceeded to concentrate their fire on each machine in turn, wheeling, diving under it and coming up under the tall.

The battle lasted for 35 minutes, during which three British machines were shot down and a fourth forced to land. Of the 12 members of their crews, 8 escaped by parachute.

CARRIES ON

Only the squadron leader was left, but he carried on and finished his job. While he dodged and side-slipped, his gunner kept up a steady fire. The leading German machine was hit and crashed in flames. A second, with smoke pouring out of it, went down

The remaining 13 Nazis gave up the pursuit.

By this time, the R.A.F. plane was in a sorry plight. The controls and rudder were damaged, both petrol tanks had holes in them, there were scores of bullet holes in the fuselage and the instrument board was partly shot away.

ENGINE ON FIRE

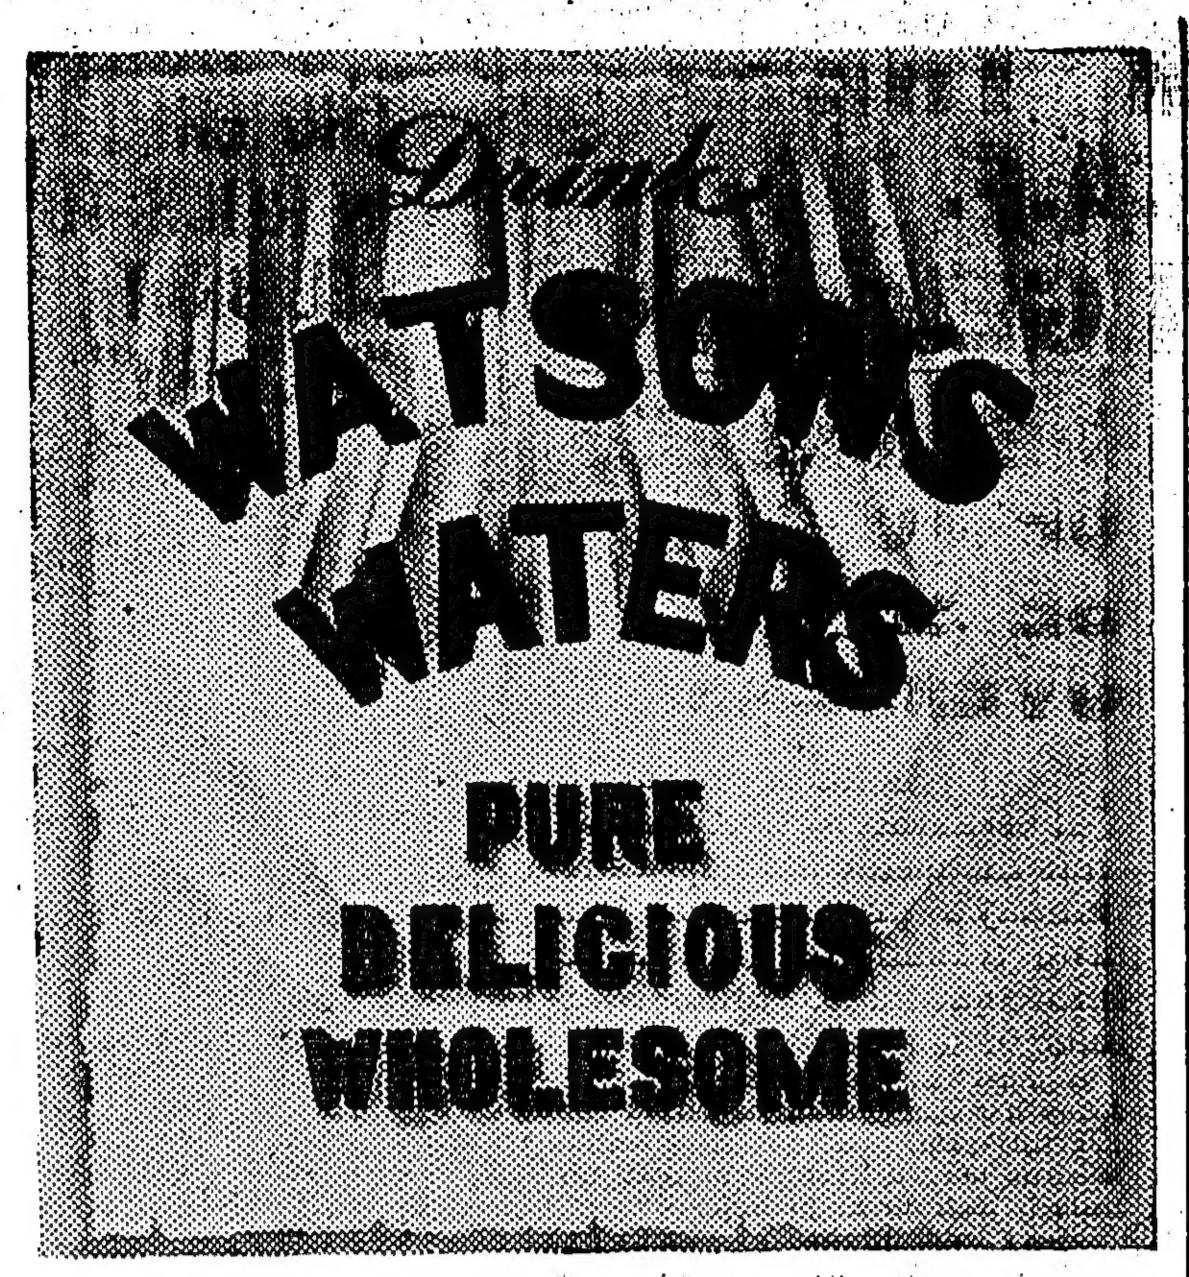

As it crossed over the Allied Line, the engine caught fire and a forced landing was necessary, despite the fact that half the retractable landinggear was jammed and the other tyre had been shot away.

When the plane crashed, the navigator was flung out with his clothes on fire. Despite this, he rescued the gunner, who was jammed in his cockpit. The squadron leader, who was an Irishman from Cork, was flung clear, but though dazed was not seriously hurt.

As the navigator was being taken off to hospital, he said:

"Old Hitler has given me a bit of a headache, but that's nothing to what we will give him!"-Reuter.

Food Minister stated that the object Lot rationing was to secure equal division and that there would be "a full measure but not overflowing." ---

ARMS EMBARGO BATTLE The case against the bill was presented by Senator Borah, leader of the Isolationists, who agree in principal with the cash and carry policy for non-military goods but are anxious to prevent the repeal of the arms embargo.

EXPANSION PEAK NOT YET REACHED IN ENGLAND

London, To-day. THE MINISTRY OF LABOUR announced that at Sept. 11 prising 1,052,218 wholly unemployed, 227,099 tempor- WAKE SOYA arily laid off and 51,611 normally in casual employment. BEAN CAKE This was an increase of 99,236 compared with the month before but 467,690 less than a year ago.

Contrary to general expectations, the unemployment figures show only a moderate increase. Indeed, at the end of the first week of war unemployment had increased to a smaller extent than often occurs in normal times owing to seasonal causes.

The 99,000 increase compares very favourably with some peace time increases.

For example, between December and January last there was an inincrease between August and Septem- day. ber was 39,000.

It is interesting to compare the position now with 1914. Between July and August of that year the Trade Union percentage of unemployment rose from 2.8 to 7.1 per cent. From the point of view of maintaining the fullest possible employment of resources, the experience at the opening of the present war is herefore much better than in the last. Nearly three quarters of the increase in September is due to persons coming on to the register as applicants for work and not to those who have lost their previous work.

MORE SATISFACTORY

The employment position revealed by these returns is thought to be much more satisfactory than if it had shown that all the country's resources of man and woman power had been already fully absorbed and stretched out to the utmost by long hours of work.

But the total reserves of man and woman power for carrying the nation's effort to a successful conclusion vastly exceed of course, the unemployed reserve.

It is known that the total population of between the ages of 16 and 64 is now about 5,500,000 greater than in 1914. A very considerable expansion of output is still possible before the peak of the nation's effort is in sight.—British W :eless.

HOW TO

Several requests have been received by the Nutrition Research Committee from readers of the article on the making of soya bean milk which appeared in the Press earlier this month for a recipe for the making of soya bean cake.

The Committee are glad to provide below particulars based upon a recipe extensively used by the Shanghai Refugee Children Nutritional Air Com- has fixed the revised quota at 75 per ledgment is due.

It will be noticed that the bean residue is derived from the quantity of beans required to prepare six pints of soya bean milk for a family consisting of a bottle fed baby, two older children and a mother and fathernamely 20 ounces, or 11/4 lbs. (15) leung) of dried soya bean. It will also be note 1 that this weight of the dry bean takes up a considerable volume of water in the course of the preparation of soya bean milk and that the wet (but drained) residue weighs twice as much as the original dry beans.

The method of preparation of the soya bean cake from the residue left after preparing soya bean milk is as follows:—

Dry and partly cook the wet bean residue in a pan. Remove this on to a dish or plate for the time being. Cook to a syrup the quantities of oil, brown sugar and salt given in table. Then stir into this syrup the partly cooked bean residue.

Now mix together the flour, bicarbonate of soda and calcium carbonate and add this to the syrup and soya bean mixture so that it makes a

FOOD PROBLEM WITH GASTRITIS

For years, doctors wanted to find a food that would not irritate the inflamed stomach walls of patients suffering from gastritis and that at the same time would rebuild the patient's strength. In severe cases of gastritis solid foods are out of the question, even liquid foods are often vomited. Yet the patient needs quick new strength to rebuild his exhausted body. In Horlicks, doctors and nurses have found an ideal food.

Where other foods are rejected, Horlicks is retained by the patient. And almost at once strength starts to come back, with the result that convalescence is shortened too. Get Horlicks to-day from your store. It is delicious to taste.

TO-DAY'S STRANGE STORY OF REAL PEOPLE

DID JOAN OF ARC ESCAPE?

BY VINCENT TOWNE

France found herself in dire straits early in the 15th century. King Charles VI., surnamed "The Well-Behaved," had become deranged and Henry V. of England had invaded the country, concluding the treaty which was to make him king of France upon the death of her mad king.

The rightful successor of the French throne, the Dauphin Charles, was a youth of 17 when this treaty was made. Two years later, when his royal father died, Henry of England came to claim the throne, and his legions were masters of the Lorie, including Paris.

Now it happened that there dwelt in France at this perilous time a little peasant maid who could neither read nor write, but who had imbibed health from the great outdoors. She tended her father's sheep and rode his horses to and from the watering places. She developed alleged powers which in our day are called psychic or clairvoyant. Going into a trance state, 'twas said, she saw visions and heard voices that told her that she was to be the virgin who, according to current prophecy, was to deliver France from its enemies. Her name was Joan or Jeanne, and that of her family either d'Arc or Darc. When 17 she went to Chinon, where the Dauphin, Charles, held his court.

Charles, who in his subservience to the English had not had the courage was defeated. Taken prisoner, She deceived not only the thousands who to be crowned King when his father was carried to Beauvais. died, was persuaded to grant Joan of Arc's wish to lead his army. He ordered her a suit of armor, and when her visions told her of a consecrated sword which lay buried in a certain churchyard, that weapon was dug up and placed in her hands. The university gave a unanimous verdict that her acts were diabolical, meriting punishment by fire, and when the sentence of death was read to her publicly by the Bishop of Beauvals he gave her alternative of burning at the stake or submission to Joan of Arc's promised work was the Church. Joan chose the latter seized upon her act as evidence of relapse into unbelief.

> An immense pile of wood was placed in the middle of the market place at Rouen. Surrounding the pyre the English had a cordon of soldiers and ecclesiastics drawn up at a distance sufficiently far to prevent any of the populace from gaining a good view of the martyr at the stake. According to the history which we studied in school, the fair body of the sainted maid of Orleans was consumed in these flames and her ashes were thrown into the Seine.

> But many chroniclers say otherwise. Indeed among some authorities there has grown a belief that the English frustrated the purpose of the Bishop of Beauvais by placing the circle of soldiers and churchmen at such a dis- 2 tance from the pyre that an effigy or substitute might be burned and Joan allowed to escape. An eminent French antiquarian, Gaston Saye, after a profound study of all available records bearing upon the case, concluded that another woman was substituted at the stake for Joan. His theory would account for the French king's apparent ingratitude in making no attempt to rescue Joan, although he owed her his crown. An ancient chronicle of the city of Metz states that a woman claiming to be Joan of Arc appeared in Orleans eight years after her supposed execution and was recognized by her brothers, Jehan and Pierre, as their supposedly dead sister. Thousands of people in Orleans recognised her as gave her no further inspiration, only the missing Maid of Orleans, and the local authorities discontinued the annual memorial service which had regularly been held for the repose of her soul. Indeed, the records of the Orleans treasury at that very time, eight years after her supposed burning, show that 210 lires were presented to Joan of Arc during the Month of July, 1439, "for the good that she did to the said town during the siege of 1429." To those who have seen these records it seems inconceivable that an imposter could have thus knew Joan's face intimately, but could have fooled her own brothers. > The question whether Joan of Arc was burned at or rescued from the stake is branded by Andrew Lang as "the most surprising and baffling of historical mysteries," and an old manuscript in the British Museum refers to the crisis of her picturesque career as follows:

> "They burned her or another woman 'like her; on which point many persons are (and have been) of different opinions."

PIRATES PANTHERS, WASTLY CU.BS TEAMS IMPROVED

(By GRANDSTAND)

DESPITE THE FACT that the Ladies' League has not been successful, so far, in acquiring a ground where they would be able to play their fixtures this season, the enthusiasm of all teams continues, as is evident in their practice and friendly games.

The Baby Panthers, winners of the most coveted prize -for the most improved team last year, are back in the fold with more knowledge of the game and a lot of keenness.

Highlights of the team are: Twirler Irene "Pat" Tavares who has the natural ability as a moundsman and who distinguished herself last year as one of the best hurlers. She is also a hard hitter and fast-base runner.

A MILLION DOLLAR SHORT STOP Celeste "Sally" Marques, the million dollar windy alley custodian, is also a hard hitter and a dependable fielder and Teresita "Terry" Botelho, one of the youngest members of the Panther squad, is a good fielder and a consistent hitter. Coach Xavier, however, finds her a little bit too playful and as she will not get down to serious playing in practice. Lydia Kavier, a new find, will be seen at second base and should prove herself an asset to her team. Terese Marques, another newcomer to the Panthers, is only 13 years old, but can she hit? She is being groomed as a relief pitcher and is doing quite well.

MIDDLESEX RE-ADMITTED

The application of the Middlesex to re-enter the First Division of the Hong Kong Football League was granted at the monthly meeting of the Hong Kong Football Association held last night.

Another important matter that was considered was the invitation of the Shanghai Football Association to senti a team North during the Christmas or Chinese New Year Holidays.

Six months ago they had 15 fine players. To-day they have five. Only Bixler, captain, Soloway and Juracko are left of their brilliant pack. The second fliteen is almost intact and they hope to be able to build up a new first fifteen as formidable as their last. Arnett, certain to have one of "the breakaway positions" and Tod Walker, a wing threequarter, are the other two players left.

RAONG KONG won their sixth lawn bowls game in Shanghai when they defeated Yangtsepoo Bowling Club by 21-12. Bradbury made a fine impression in his first appearance as skip in Shanghai when he judged both the green and the weight of his shots to a nicety. At the same time, Hall, as No. 2, was drawing brilliantly to produce his best form of the past few games, Omar seemed to be getting an attack of "staleness" as he was by no mems up to his usual matchless standard. Playing lead once more. Duncan started off erratically, but towards the latter part of the match he made a fine revival to mass his shots on the jack consistently.

In their last game Hong Kong lost 20-18 to a team drawn from the Countril of Shanghai Bowling Association. Of the Colony rink. Hall and Omar were the most impressive. While Hall had a masterful control of his draws to give the visitors the advantage on many an end. Omar, who was playing lead, was sending his shots superbly on the kitty to wipe away all doubts as to his versatility. Bradbury's canny skipping, however, played a great part in Hong Kong's winning ends .- N.C.D.N.

APPALLING EXPOSURE OF POVERTY IN COLONY

An appalling insight into the depth of poverty among the Chinese in Hong Kong was provided to-day at the Kowloon Magistracy, when two street sleepers, one aged 64 and the other 54, were charged with possession of tainted food.

The "food" consisted of a dead cat, which they had picked up dead in the street, and were proposing to eat!

When the attention of a Chinese! constable was attracted, the corpse had been boiled and the elder of the two was engaged in scraping off the fur.

When the younger heard of the other's arrest, he gave himself up. -

BOUND OVER!

They were bound over in the sum of $20 for one year Sanitary Inspector A. C. Sinton pointing out that !! while they were in possession of unwholesome food, there was nothing to show intention of attempting to sell it.

Mr. Himsworth pointed out to the sent from Moscow and at least an defendants that had they eaten the equal number went yesterday.—Our animal they might have killed themselves.
